Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention is a program to monitor the actual, expected and predicted output performance of a process unit in an oil refinery.